HOLOCAUST

2018
Legacies of the Holocaust:
History, Memory, Law, & Justice

A course covering the systematic of six million Jews and five million others by the Nazis.

This study abroad trip enhanced my understanding of the causes and fallout of the genocide
during World War II.

We visited sites and memorials across Germany, Poland, and The Netherlands in order to see the remnants and impact that the Holocaust has had.

Memory was a key focus of the trip. This zine is my follow on project, a reflection on my memories and experiences.

Excerpts from my journal:

After visiting Auschwitz

May 24

"The whole time, I was torn between knowing what was respectful and what was not. Why were some things allowed for us to take pictures of, and others not?"

"...what makes any certain part of that camp more deserving of respect than another when it comes to photographs?"

"I saw the shoes. I do not know what else to say about them, other than how shaken I was that there were still more than I could imagine."

Struggling with the past

May 31 - Journal

"It is amazing to me how impressionable children are. Today, Matthias said that even the children of the SS saw the prisoners as inhuman."

"There were even the SS kindergartens and clubs that supported the regime in young people."
