all the growing things
a tale of gardens, monsters, and old ladies
The lilac were in bloom, and it was Maude’s favourite time of year.

Even the green spikes of weeds, and the unending plague of cats were tolerable so early in the year.

Everything was green; everything was growing, and there was just something about spring...

That was mysterious.

Maude had weathered everything from whitefly and out-of-control bindweed to neighbourhood cats...

And she wasn’t about to take any guff from some oversized earthworm.

No sir, something in life are too important for compromise.
The sharp of her shovel bit into the creature, and there was one moment—

CRUMBLE

...heh...

when she knew that something had gone wrong.

SPLAT!
The Vagus Street Rehabilitation Project is written by John Myers and illustrated by Jenn Myers. Eight loosely connected stories explore the world of a haunted housing project, and the final days of those who live there.

Written and illustrated by Jenn Myers, All the Growing Things follows the adventures of an elderly gardener who fights monsters (and cats) in her garden. When she finds out that the monsters are part of a plot that spans centuries, Maude decides to put a stop to it.

Coming Spring of 2014!

The Era of Great Wonders is written by John Myers, and illustrated by Jenn Myers. Part documentary, part action adventure, this book follows the lives of people trapped in the doomed cities when the giant monsters come to town.

www.typodmany.com